Dear QM215 Students:

The class website is ready. You can find it at <http://www.economagic.com/uab/class/QM215.htm>

The class website is not on a UAB computer, so your BlazerID will not work. Just follow the instructions listed there to log on.

I suggest that the first page you read is the page, Information for new students. This page gives an overview on how the class works.

Next I suggest reading the Schedule/Syllabus page. This gives a simple schedule of the material covered and how the grading scheme works.

Then please go to the most important page, the Coursework page, which gives a detailed listing of material covered, links to notes, videos, homeworks, practice exams, etc. The exact times and locations for some exams is not known yet, but they will be posted later.

After viewing this material, you will notice that I have labs once a week 4:30-6:00pm, either on a Wednesday or a Thursday in BEC 108 -- the computer lab. Labs are not compulsory. They are not lectures. They are they instead of office hours. You can come and ask me questions then in an open environment. If you cannot come, there's no problem because you can always contact via email or make an appointment to visit me in my office during business hours.

Please try to login as soon as possible so that if you have technical problems we can work out a solution quickly.

Forwarding your UAB email: If you want to receive your UAB email (like this) on your regular email address, please go to and click on "Change Information"; enter your BlazerID and corresponding password; then change "Real, host-based e-mail address" to your regular email address; and finally hit the "Change" button at bottom.

<http://idm.blazernet.uab.edu/ph/main.cgi>

Thanks, and good luck.
